

Damien Davis

"A good day to die"

Visit "A good day to die" on MotoLyrics.com

A good day to die

The brightness of the day has taken us all by suprise, the soldier looked in his Bright green eyes and he said
Today, today is a good day to die

All along the battlefield they played the game of war, the biggest one they'd ever seen Since all war's began
They'd never see another one and I talk about the dawn
Oh no, not with the brightness of this day.

Well, you would have thought at this late date that they would have learned since Alexander of Greece, that their many little games of war
Never brought them, not one of them a moments Peace
But still the people are gathered from all their Diffrent land's to play a brand new game, the stakes
the highest yet
To bring about what Jesus said in his many Diffrent prophecies.
Ah yhe today today is a good day to die
Today to day is a good day to die.

The soldier dropped to his knee's
And he gave a sudden cry, knowing all too well
That his life was at it's end,
The soldier looked across the black landscape and he said
Today today is a good day to die

Visit Damien Davis page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.