

Queen

"The Butcher And The Butterfly"

Visit "The Butcher And The Butterfly" on MotoLyrics.com

there is a finger missing on my right hand a butchers hand in a butterfly wing span the sky hangs on a thread as I paint the white picket fence red said am I alive or am I dead I caught a raingbow tear in her sunset smile I told the broken bird of my unborn child these blood stained walls in her head I found my girl bleeding in his bed the angels cried in butterfly red
(the butcher and the butterfly)
her wings are torn my babies dead
(the butcher and the butterfly)
I put my girl in the butchers hand she is my curse cried fireman Sam heaven down below inscribed her name my baby girl's lost in amongst these flames
the angels cried in butterfly red
(the butcher and the butterfly)
her wings are torn my babies dead
(the butcher and the butterfly) oh heaven help me what have I done I kissed the daughter of my unborn son heaven down below inscribed her name let heaven oh heaven rain down again
the angels cried in butterfly red
(the butcher and the butterfly)
her wings are torn my babies dead
(the butcher and the butterfly)
the angels cried in butterfly red
(the butcher and the butterfly)
her wings are torn my babies dead
(the butcher and the butterfly)

Visit Queen page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.