Just about the time that you had the whole world figured out that would be the time that you enter in the season of doubt i'll tell you that every time those thoughts begin to enter your mind your father picks you up again and that's how you find ooh that

(chorus)
God loves you you know it, you know it, you know it, know it
God loves you yah forever and ever, and ever, and ever, ever you know just how cold it feels when there's no hope left inside all alone and scared you pray for strength to make it through the night remember when every turn with changes leaves you cold in the dark light breaks through and shows you he was there all along cause

(chorus)

you never really wanted to believe it was true you never really thought that this can happen to you but just as soon as you begin to throw up you hands your father whispers gently and then you understand

(chorus)
