

Rachel Lampa "The Art"

Visit "The Art" on MotoLyrics.com

This is all so beautiful
But how much of this will really be
Enough to keep me on my feet
So this is how it feels-when it's for real
But how much can be invisible
Enough for me to just believe
Cuz I'm chasing the wind
And ending up right where I began

I know that there's an art to starting over again
And I know that god will never waste the pain
You can only try so hard to right a wrong
This song will only last so long
But life is just the art of living on

We may never know why we should just let go
But do we really want a god that we can understand
Still we close our eyes try to reason why
But since when do our desires dominate the plan?
We're chasing the wind
And ending up right where we begin

When life is in slow motion
And when the silence is deafening
Hold on tight, you're gonna cry
But there's always a reason why

Visit Rachel Lampa page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.