I can put your pieces back together
While I take the rest of you apart
I didn't think my luck would last forever
So I think right here is where we'll start

When the lines of the past have been blurred
It gets much easier to tell those around to let go

Now is the time when we find out what's really
happening
How was the ride of your life?
Now is the time when we find out what's really
happening
How was the ride of your life, of your life?

You can put your faith in me forever
While everything around you falls apart
If you lost what you got, when they took you to bet

And they beat you down for every penny well then You can bet that I know who they are

When the lies from the past have left you burned
It gets much easier to tell those you love to let go

Now is the time when we find out what's really
happening
How was the ride of your life?
Now is the time when we find out what's really
happening
How was the ride of your life, of your life?

Of your life

Now is the time when we find out what's really
happening
How was the ride?
Now is the time when we find out what's really
happening
How was the ride of your life?

Now
