Strike a match
let's light some drama up i won't stop sweetie 'till i've had enough and don't tell me "we've got nothing to talk about" cause you've got another confession to make you've got a few more hearts to break and when you're done with that you'll light another match cause no one's keeping track you know, if could choose, i would never lose everything i had in you but fate led to a mistake it's something i'll never shake put up (or) shut up this is the way it has to be don't cover up in lies it's 3 am and you're talking in circles

put up (or) shut up
the time is right

who's to blame when your conscience lies? trust falling short in her eyes forget, regret, deny, then lie whatever it takes to get you through and i've got another confession to make i've got a few more hearts to break and when i'm done with that i'll light another match

too much time on your hands what's life without chances?
