Let me ride your tear over the chin to Africa again in the lap of the lioness where I once was at home Between your long legs
I search for last year's snow but there is no more snow here

over clouds without luck the big bird pushes his head gently into his hideout Between your long legs
I search for last year's sand but there is no more snow here

Hunger Connects like and insect while asleep you don't notice that it stings you lucky, I will go nowhere the finger slips to Mexico but it sinks in the ocean Hunger has no mercy
