Don't you remember by Randi Laubek from the album:
"Ducks and Drakes"
music & words: Randi Laubek

A star has gone away with the light
So quiet is the night

The thousand calls are in my mind
The calls are clearer than your eyes
It sounds like warning
And I better not let go

The only things, which are real, it says
The atoms and the empty space
I just want to love you Believe you for a while

The way you're touching me
The way your fingers crawl
The way you're acting like nothing's wrong at all
The way you hold me tight
And baby when your eyes meet mine
The way I'm doubting if there is a fight

If you also feel the space tonight
The dust, the star, the one you are
The life you live - the love you give

Don't you ever wonder if you're doing right?

I know it sounds like a warning
But you better not let go

A star has gone away with the light
Don't be too blind to take a fight

The thousand calls are in my mind
The perfect road we want to find
I just want to learn
How you did make up your mind

The way you're touching me...etc.

If you also feel the space tonight...etc.

Don't you ever wonder if you're doing right?

The way you're touching me...etc.

If you also feel the space tonight
The light, the lake - the moves you make
The life you live - the steps you take

Don't you ever wonder if you're doing right?
Don't you ever miss the love the love we share tonight?
Don't you ever wonder if you're moves are right?
