Momma's in the kitchen
Sister's on the phone
Daddy's watching TV
I was upstairs all alone
Pickin' on my guitar
Just twicking all my twang
Up all night, sleep all day
And people say I'm strange

My girlfriend works at Walmart
She'll check your merchandice
If you give her any lip son,
She'll cut you down to size
Got a crusafix and a crystal hanging on a silver chain
A fish hook belly button ring and a tattoo that says

Strange, Strange, Just a little strange
A little wild and dangerous and slightly derranged
Strange, strange, don't you ever change
'Cause everybody out there is just a little strange

She's got skirts out on the fender
Headlights to the wind
Crush velvet on the seats, makes a boy wanna slide right on in
Two tone drop top Cadillac
Cherry red and pink champagne, Chrome around the tail lights
And the license plate says, guess what?

Strange, Strange, Just a little strange
A little wild and dangerous and slightly derranged
Strange, strange, don't you ever change
'Cause everybody out there is just a little

Everybody is just a little
Strange, Strange, Just a little strange
A little wild and dangerous and slightly derranged
Strange, strange, don't you ever change
'Cause everybody out there gets a little

Strange, Strange, Just a little strange

A little wild and dangerous and slightly derranged
Strange, strange, don't you ever change
'Cause everybody out there is just a little Stra-a-a-a-a

Strange
Strange

Everybody looking, everybody looking,
Everybody looking, everybody looking,
Everybody looking, everybody looking,
Everybody looking, everybody looking,
For some strange strange strange strange strange
