Yesterday I waited for you
At the corner candy store
The way I always do
The hours passed, the gang went home
I was left there all alone
Waiting just for you.

After school waiting for you
Am I a fool to wait for you the way I do
After school.

I wonder if it could be true
That you had found somebody new
To take the place I've known
Finally, it got so late
I saw I was a fool to wait
So I walked home alone.

After school waiting for you
Am I a fool to wait for you the way I do
After school.

Here I am just like before
Waiting at the candy store
The way I always do.
Will it be him, will it be me
I'm wondering who it will be
Walking home with you.

After school waiting for you
Am I a fool to wait for you the way I do
After school.
