(Roger Brown/Trey Bruce)

Hope you didn't burn too many bridges
On your way back to haunt my heart
'Cause it's safe behind these stones and ridges
You know how us healin' victims are
I take comfort where I find it
In the neon and the crowds
I guess someone like me designed it
This place where old flames aren't allowed

There's a border you can't cross
There's a wall that you can't climb
The space is drawn too wide
Between your world and mine
You've already broke my heart
(And) I won't let you break my mind
As far as your memory goes
That's where I draw the line

I'll bet this isn't how you planned it
I've picked myself up off the ground
These legs are shakin', but they're standin'
And I won't let you knock me down

There's a border you can't cross
There's a wall that you can't climb
The space is drawn too wide
Between your world and mine
You've already broke my heart
(And) I won't let you break my mind
As far as your memory goes
That's where I draw the line
That's where I draw the line
