All Through the Night
Raspberries
by Eric Carmen & Michael McBride

Hey there, sugar, let me buy you a drink
Won't you tell me your last name
I won't recognize you tonight
'Cause you just won't look the same
Well I could live for an hour or two
Trying to find someone just like you
Why don't you sit right down
Hhave a double, and I'll get to know ya

All through the night
If you decide it'll be all right
Gonna make you sweat til the sheets are wet
Now don't say I didn't warn ya, no
All through the night
If you play your hand just right
You're gonna know my bed
Take my head
And hitchhike home in the morning
Oh yeah

You feel so soft and you taste so sweet
Like cold wine in mid-July
Well yeah, by this time when you're drunk at five
And the drinks sure got me high
Now that I've already had ya
I'm gettin' bored with the idle chat
'bout the place you live, what you do all day
Well honey, it doesn't matter, no

All through the night
If you decide it'll be all right
Gonna make you sweat til the sheets are wet
Now don't say I didn't warn ya
All through the night
If you play your hand just right
You're gonna know my bed
Take my head

And hitchhike home in the morning
Oh yeah

All through the night
If you decide it'll be all right
Gonna make you sweat til the sheets are wet
Now don't say I didn't warn ya, no
All through the night
If you play your hand just right
You're gonna know my bed
Take my head
And hitchhike home in the morning
Oh yeah

If we meet again, baby, who knows when
In some smoke-filled, sleazy bar
Don't be surprised, if between the flies
I can't tell which one you are
You all look just the same
And I never could remember names
So if you say hello, and I still don't know
Well, honey, that's such a shame

All through the night
If you decide it'll be all right
Gonna make you sweat til the sheets are wet
Now don't say I didn't warn ya
All through the night
If you play your hand just right
You're gonna know my bed
Take my head
And hitchhike home in the morning
You're gonna know my bed
Take my head
And hitchhike home in the morning
