"Among Whispering Walls" laughter in the castle halls has faded dead away the rooms around lie empty now as winter brings dismay deep within the castle walls a spirit wanders free the undead soul of centuries past, kept from heaven's door

around the towers of this castle darkness drapes the land a fog now draws upon the hills engulfs the hillside grand

the undead faces in the silent halls a gloomy picture painted on the walls of demons and darknes we are told a tale an ancient story everyone, everyone must hail... the road to the castle is paved in blood tonight the life force of the innocent, victims of the fight i feel the presence all around us now as voices whisper silently, whisper to the clouds
