There's too much silence in her night
She calls herself an angel
And she comes to town and that's
(L O N D O N)
Yeah, just so she can fall
(L O N D O N)

There's something about the way she walks, you know
It suits the city streets so well and yet
Nobody's heard her band yet and no one will

Oh, here it comes now, there's nothing to say
There goes again but no one cares anyway
What's in your eyes, ha? Your rock'n'roll eyes
'Cause it's all just lies, oh just rock'n'roll eyes

You see the man, he calls out for a drink but you're all
You're all tied up in your backstage lines
And you, you just can't move a muscle

Six in the morning so you rise and you fall
You've got to, you've got to grab what you can
And you [incomprehensible]
What a gunslinger ?

Oh yeah, he comes here but there's nothing to say
Someone to someone but no one cares anyway
He sees your eyes, your rock'n'roll eyes
We know it's all just lies, oh just rock'n'roll eyes

Oh baby, when you say my name, I get such a thrill inside
She says there's something in the way that I look at her
Yeah, I guess it's right here in my eyes
I can't lie

And here comes now, there's nothing to say
Here comes now but no one cares anyway
He sees your eyes, your rock'n'roll eyes
Just a bit like mine, yeah, rock'n'roll eyes

It's just the lies, it's just the rock'n'roll lies

It's just the lies, it's just the rock'n'roll lies
Oh, yes, just the, yes, just the lies
The lies, the lies and the lies
