This broken heart, is this my own invention? let me tell you, it worked before i met you. there is so much to lose and nothing to gain from this, i should have seen it all along. suddenly all i found in you has disappeared and i don't know why i've fallen for it. there is no place for you in these broken dreams of mine. tell me no lies and say you feel the same. there is so much to lose and nothing to gain from this, i should have seen it all along. suddenly all i found in you has disappeared and i don't know why i've fallen for it. the world comes crashing down (on you).
