Oh you don't have blue eyes
I expected blue eyes
That's how I pictured you would be

And you don't have long hair
I thought that you'd have long hair
So this is all a shock to me

I didn't know if you would meet me or believe me
When I said that I was fooled
I really thought that I would hate you
I know I meant to
There'd only be one of us left when we're through

Now that we're face to face
And I put myself in your place
I see the truth I see who's really to blame

And I won't play his game or try to get even
He'll know he's lost watching us leaving
I blamed you, but I see my mistakes
Now that we're face to face

I believe in true love something to be sure of Isn't that what we deserve?
There is no blame here, we both end up the same here
A little wiser than we were

There was a time this would have killed me
And it may still be hard to look you in the eye
And now that all the spells are broken
The truth's been spoken
My heart has the strength to tell him goodbye

And now that we're face to face
And I put myself in your place
I see the truth I see who's really to blame

And I won't play his game or try to get even
He'll know he's lost watching us leaving
I blamed you, but I see my mistakes
Now that we're face to face

I won't play his game or try to get even
He'll know he's lost watching us leaving
I blamed you, but I see my mistakes
Now that we're face to face
Now that we're face to face
