The boy stands silently
Outside the rim of light
Afraid to take the step
Into the circle of light
His dreams are his shelter
And he travels alone
But someday he'll be home

A little girl is dancing shyly in the park
She has a dream and when it rains
She hides in the dark
Her dreams are her shelter
And her meals are with
The pigeons in the park

They have their dreams and faiths
And trust in their god
They have their hope and prayers
And confidence in life
Although, some days
They have their doubts
They have a shelter of dreams

There is a quiet child who's Watching the sky every night
Climbing stars and he pretends
He could visit them all

His dreams are his shelter
And when twilight comes
The stars fades away, he's asleep

They have their dreams and faiths
And trust in their god
They have their hope and prayers
And confidence in life
Into their eyes you'll find
That something you've lost
Although, some days
They have their doubts
They have a shelter of dreams

They have their dreams and faiths
And trust in their god
They have their hope and prayers
And confidence in life
Although, some days
They have their doubts
They have a shelt..

They have their dreams and faiths
And trust in their god
They have their hope and prayers
And confidence in life
Although, some days
They have their doubts
