Call your cancer call it well the truth my friend we know you're scared do you pray and beg for time it's staring you in the face goodnight i chose the less than traveled road the rest of the country must know something yeah there's nothing quite like the truth come make us seeers and believers in you you're making it hard for everyone oh it's the money and the church you're making it hard for everyone oh they're trading old souls in for new ones you're making it hard for everyone the fear in your head is true in time a doctor's note this is the end of the line and there's only two to know through the fields and through the snow you're making it hard for everyone oh you bet on boxing he'll bet on jesus you're making it hard for everyone

Oh so glad to know we'll die for gods we'll never meet you're making it hard for everyone i get a little bit of reason i give a little bit back tonight and there's something with this season yeah there's nothing that's right it makes everything right tonight calm your conscience call it well if you don't you'll burn in hell at least that's what the righteous say they'll fight forever to get your soul jump in these dead leaves and all our fall-inspired songs for loss of words we'll make music for you to dance along to you're making it hard for everyone oh as you're claiming you're wise to the afterlife you're making it hard for everyone you're making it hard for everyone
