Raindrops from heaven
Blessing us each and every one

Day by day, year after year
We learn to trust that help is near

And the rain comes down and it fills our souls
And in looking up we're finally whole

And the rain comes down

We set aside a sacred cup
And the falling rain fills it up

We take our cups side by side
And pour them in the rising tide

And the rain comes down and the river flows
And it fills the world with a love that grows
And for every drop that we give in love
Ten more fall from heaven above

Raindrops we set aside
From heaven a sacred cup
Blessing us the falling rain
Each and everyone fills it up

Day by day we take our cups
Year after year side by side
We learn to trust and pour them in
That help is near the rising tide

And the rain comes down and it fills our souls
And in looking up we're finally whole
And the rain comes down and the river flows
And it fills the world with a love that grows

And the rain comes down.....
