"friend" at war with "friend". divisions of two mutually hostile armed camps..

how could it become a pre-vailing belief that we need to get consistently fed by a heavy diet of state-aided crusade reports?

not only small things of border-law or read this cover story of some "necessary" war.

and all these postwar partnerships - for postwar reconstruction?

boost the economy. starting more or less from scratch...

boost the economy. small-printed, it sways bold underline.

boost the economy. Short-comings due austerity

A "no brainer" it seems, but not so obvious at that time.

the world is not for sale, this sounds like some bad fairy tale.

we see it as a hint that this is just the blind tip of a dark wave which has long forgotten its source in the rough.

And i don't even think of Thatchers 'n' Reagans filthy crusade yet.

It spells in some way the end of "real" life.

The water has already begun to rise: boost the economy.

commitments and ties, desperate cries.

But look how the Seven Sisters try to run their show.

boost the economy. Short-comings due austerity.

But look how the Seven Sisters try to run their show
