It's a bright light on a dark night showing me my way home came at the right time ah, you must have read my mind when everything was scattered you came along and mattered feels so right i wish this night could never end we could do it over and over and over again who knows, baby, but someday maybe you came along and shattered everything that mattered chorus:
sometimes it's like a river sometimes it's like a stone but you, you are an island and I am not afraid to be stranded here and stay with you come on girl, come with me come on inside we'll head up into the mountains yeah, we'll take that ride roll some bones, lay back, tell some stories of home
'cause even if it shatters it's the memories that matter
bridge:
it's hard to feel these days aren't numbered but you've got to let go at last
