I don't want to hear you say
"Most likely you go your own way"
And you don't have to sell it straight
You go yours and I go mine
And I don't want to fall from grace
But she never seems to want to lend a hand
And I don't want to fall away
But you never seem to want to give enough of yourself
You're too far away to write
No one's in my head today all night
No one wants to hang around
I try to reconstruct this place
This SOUND
I just wanted you to say
That you never wanted this to go away
And I just called you up to say that I love you
And I was thinking I could stay for a while
