no one waits for her inside the house she spots a stranger in the mirror and the record spins her nearer to the outcome of her day you live inside the city you forget how tall the trees can get a bird sits on a branch across from my eighth floor window and you can't really say that it's an eight floor branch cause trees don't have floors and buildings do

I came in from the rain which wasn't really rain it was just january snow in denial and something must have gotten lost in the translation, russian to english and winter wasn't wintery today she comes into the house and no one waits for her inside the house she spots a stranger in the mirror and the record spins her nearer to the outcome of her day you live inside the city you forget how tall the trees can get a bird sits on a branch of my eighth floor window
