Visit "Questions" on MotoLyrics.com

Give me just a minute of your time
Before I spend another day myself
I have a few questions I need you to answer me
Is there anything that Im missing out on without you?

So where would we all be if we werent here today?
Is this what we deserve?
How different would things be?
Now where would we all be if we werent here today?
Is this what we deserve?
How different would things be?

I know that theres no time left to spend anywhere else
And every day it seems like this (every day it seems like this)
Were still just one step away from any real solution
Lies, feeding lies, feeding Lies

So where would we all be if we werent here today
Is this what we deserve
How different would things be
Now where would we all be if we werent here today
Is this what we deserve
How different would things be

Could this all be solved in less than a minute
All I ask if for your undivided attention
Theres nothing you can say
Theres nothing anyone can say

So where would we all be if we werent here today
Is this what we deserve
How different would things be
Now where would we all be if we werent here today
Is this what we deserve
How different would things be
