Step carefully - one foot at a time, you'd be less afraid if you just closed your eyes, but instead your staring down - clear your head and turn around,

Dont look down you might fall,
your standing on the ledge,
and there's nothing there to keep you holding on.

You could have everything but you're lonely inside, Would you trade it all for someone at your side, just one step could end the pain, you say "there's nothing left to gain."

Dont look down you might fall,
your standing on the ledge,
and there's nothing there to keep you holding on.

Dont look down you might fall,
your standing on the ledge,
and there's nothing there to keep you holding on.
