I walk alone through this storm
Wandering through this frail and vacant world
I've nothing to lose, and so much to gain
So what's stopping me from chasing after You

So I'll follow You
To the place we called our home
Even to the end
I will live no more to roam

Here I stand, at the end
The failures of my past have broken me
It's here I find Your arms stretched to me
They're reaching out to save me from myself!

So I'll follow You
To the place we called our home
Even to the end
I will show this world Your love

Though trials will call my name
Still I will sing
When the cries of captive hearts bring pain
We'll make this anthem ring

Rise!
