As the raindrops are falling
I can hear your voice calling,
Calling me back once again.

I've been away for too long
But now I'm coming home,
Back to your loving arms again.

I miss the countryside so fair
And the good folk that live there,
I've missed your tender kisses and your smile.

Now I'm not too far away,
I'm coming home today,
And soon my feet will touch my native soil.

And we'll do all the old things that we've always done
Dancing, romancing, together as one

Home is where the heart is and my heart's with you
No matter where I travel I'm coming home to you.

The taxi cab is waiting as I stepped out off the plane
'Cos I can't wait to catch the morning train

For now I'm returning
Where the home-fire's always burning
To the one I love who's waiting there for me.

And we'll do all the old things that we've always done
Dancing, romancing, together as one
Home is where the heart is and my heart's with you
No matter where I travel I'm coming home to you.

Home is where the heart is and my heart's with you
No matter where I travel I'm coming home to you
