Sing me an old irish song
Bring back the dreams that have gone
Sing me a love what's so strong
Bring me the days when we we're young...
And true, and I love you

And that old irish song
Calling me back to my home
Where once again you sing along
To an old irish song

I see the mountains, the valleys
The green fields below me
I walked the highways, the byways
The old people show me

I hear the songbirds
Remember the soft words

We spoke after dark in the glen
I hear you calling me
Your songs recalling me
Back to those days again

Sing me an old irish song
Bring back the dreams that have gone
Sing me a love what's so strong
Bring me the days when we we're young...
And true, and I love you

And that old irish song's
Calling me back to my home
Where once again we sing along
To an old irish song

I remember the old days
How I loved the old ways of living
There was more sharing, caring
More loving, more giving
How times have changed
Life's been all disarranged
Since summers we laughed in the rain

But I hear you calling me
Your songs recalling me
Back to those days again

Sing me an old irish song
Bring back the dreams that have gone
Sing me a love what's so strong
Bring me the days when we we're young...
And true, and I love you

And that old irish song's
Calling me back to my home
Where once again you sing along
To an old irish song

Sing me an old irish song
Bring back the dreams that have gone
Bring me the days when we we're young...
And true, and I love you

And that old irish song's
Where once again you sing along

An old irish song
