I sold my farm to take my woman
Where she longed to be
I left my kin and my friends
Back there in Tennessee.

I bought the oneway tickets
She had often begged me for
And thay took us to
The streets of Baltimore.

Her heart was filled with laughter
When she saw those city lights
She said the prettiest place
On earth is Baltimore at night.

A man feels proud to give
His woman what she's longing for
And I tried of liked
The streets of Baltimore.

I ran an old machine
I bought her this cottage
In a neighborhood serene.

And every night when I came home
With every muscle sore
She would drag me through
The streets of Baltimore.

Well, I tried hard to bring her back
To where she used to be
But I soon learned she loved
Those bright lights more than me.

Well, I'm a going back on that same train
That brought me here before
While my baby walks
The streets of Baltimore.

Yes, my baby walks
The streets of Baltimore...
