Now we stand as we are, riding high on ourselves.
Washing it in.
In each our own special way, loneliness shared.
Save a soul, save a world. If we can then we should.
Still there's you and there's me with what's left forth to be.
But words don't go so far. So lay down, with everything you are.
With all you'll ever be. With everyone you are.
How wonderful to be. How wonderful you see.
Now we stand as we are, riding high on ourselves.
Washing it out! With each our own point of view, gathering few.
Save a soul, save a world. If we can then we should.
Still there's me and there's you with what's left forth to do.
But words don't go so far. So lay down...
