

Richard Lloyd "Ain't It Time"

Visit "Ain't It Time" on MotoLyrics.com

(Lloyd)

I had a dream, yes and baby you were there
Toy soldiers on the ground, but they had no war
How long will i sleep, here fully sheltered from the world?
How long will you believe, just like a little girl?
How many times will we fall, to rise again?
How many songs will we sing?
We will count them at the end
You were walking in my dream, with sixteen roses in your hand
Shakespeare's a character with a thousand plays at his command
So i closed my ragged eyes, and i followed him again
Prince of darkness be aware, that it's this vision i befriend
How many times will we fall, to rise again?
How many songs will we sing,
We'll count them in the end
Ain't it time, ain't it time, that we awoke?
Ain't it time, ain't it time, we came alive?
So i had a dream, yes and baby you were there Toy soldiers on the ground, and your wooden horses in the air
And with a taste so sweet, we watched the world in quiet review,
And though i dream my dreams alone, still i'll share
them all with you
How many times will we fall, to rise again?
How many songs will we sing,
We'll count them in the end
Ain't it time, ain't it time, that we awoke?
Ain't it time, ain't it time, we came alive?

Visit Richard Lloyd page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.