In this empty house there's an echo
Of your laughter haunting me
Is it your voice in my memory
Or the wind being cruel and taunting me?

Loneliness is my only friend
Faithful and constant to the end
When I look back at happiness
I will remember you
We were almost a love song, hey

I wish that I could bring you back to me
You're my missing melody
I wish my words could move your heart to see
That you belong here, next to me

As the wind keeps gently sighing
With every breath your name I'm crying

In my empty life there's no music
And the silence won't let me go
Only the wind to remind me
That I need you more than I'd ever know

It looks like a ghost town in my mind
Where we are dancing out of time
I feel like a poet out of rhyme
Looking for one last word
We were almost a love song, hey

I wish that I could bring you back to me
You're my missing melody
I wish my words could move your heart to see
That you belong here, next to me

As the wind keeps gently sighing
With every breath your name I'm crying

Here I am, all alone
Almost a love song
You're the love of my life
Oh, my love, my love

You're the reason that I live
Almost a love song
All my love, all my love, my love
Almost a love song
In my heart

As the wind keeps gently sighing
With every breath your name I'm crying
