Nowadays my sadness isn't a passing thing

I'm obsessed with knowing the truth

And when night comes

Each star will seem like a tear

Don't say anything

I would like to be like everyone

To go happily through life

Or pretend like I'm always fine

To see things with humor

Don't say anything

That the bad things always pass

The future will be good

Everything passes

When everything is lost

There is always a way out

When everything is lost

A light always shines

Tomorrow will be a better day

But today, why do I feel like this?

A sad angel came down from heaven near me

And this obsession doesn't end

And my smile dries up

When everything is lost...

No, oh don't say anything

Look at me silently

And thank you very much for thinking about me
