

Rie Sinclair

"Always Something"

Visit "Always Something" on MotoLyrics.com

Will you take the time to find your self
Knowing you may face a broken heart
I know the tears, they're not for me
So what are you waiting on?

There's always something worth dying for
To give you a reason, to settle a score
But I know that a heart lost in disguise
Is looking for something more
To keep it alive

It seems so high, out of reach
A love you desire, youre questioning
I wish I could give it, but its yours to take
So what are you waiting on?

There's always something worth dying for
To give you a reason, to settle a score
But I know that a heart lost in disguise
Is looking for something more
To keep it alive

And you may not see the end
And you may find disillusionment
Is the battle over before it began?
What are you waiting on?

Visit Rie Sinclair page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.