I'm painting my smile drying my tears cover it all (cover it all) you wear disguise hiding your fears put up a wall but underneath it all that love we had is gone we already let go but we put on a show so nobody knows cause we aint ready too fall

it's a masquerade
we've been trying to hide our faces behind a masquerade dancing around that truth but i don't wanna lie i'm tired of pretending acting like every things okay
it hurts to much to face it's over so we keep living in a masquerade

your all that i know so comfortable
but the feeling is gone and even though we need more we're scared of being alone so the show goes on

if we took off our mask then we could never last cause we'll be force to see it's all to make be live cause we're not who we use to be

acting like every things okay...

it's over so we keep living in a masquerade

i'm wiping my smile off letting the tears come streaming down you take your disguise off bringing your walls down to the ground we be screaming i side we can finally let it go the truth is our now we're face to face time it put it into this so i met him in a masquerade we've been trying to hide our faces behind a masquerade dancing around the truth but i don't wanna lie i'm tired pretending (i don't want to pretend)

(when no things okay)
it hurts to much to face (to much) it's over so keep living in a masquerade...
