(L. Tiegen)

Ended a worker, according to plan,
'Cause you're just a woman and i'm just a man.
Whatever the future might happen to bring,
It'll be the right thing.

It's all been happening for a long, long time,
There's a valley behind ev'ry mountain you climb.
So turn up the music and open the door
Nothing left to wait for.

Shine, shine your sweet light on me,
You said you were a rider but you feel like a woman to
me.

Open the windows and unlock the locks
Ride all you can 'cause they may stop all your clocks.
Let all your hair down and open the wine
Things will be really fine.

Shine, shine your sweet light on me,
You said you were a woman but you feel like a rider to
me.

Open the windows and unlock the locks
Ride all you can 'cause they may stop all your clocks.
Let all your hair down and open the wine
Things will be really fine.
