now's the time
to rearrange your life
live for something
outside of your own mind
we all dream
the same dream everynight
to burn the world that you call civilized

alive and well
i live to be alive
i live to always strive
for something more
alive and well
i'll never understand the who, what, why or when
of you tonight...

we face the stares of judgement and almost everyday
the shaking heads
of disapproval say,

"pray for you to give me something then find out that there was nothing left."

recite the words inside (your heart) realize that this is nothing without your voice
im not giving up
and ill blame the worst on you
i know whats wrong
alive and well
i live to be alive
for something more
nothing ventured, nothing gained and I dont need to explain myself to you.
