The day will come through
It will only take some time
Turning into a press on the matter
Look for the reasons behind it all
The day will come through
It might do you some good
Down, lift off from the ground
Each second to save
Everything has it's point today
What you say might come true
I wouldn't complain unless you want me to Point out where you live
And notice who you friends are
You are better off
This will only take some time to understand
Down, lift off the ground
Each second to save
Everything has it's point today
So many questions how you live
The bests reasons I can give
I've never been here before
Everything has it's point today
Lost it all again
To start over
Turn around and then, you see things even
You see everything
