In winter it whispers
Siren call through longest night
Blue ache, hard shadow
Dreams shown in bitter light

In spring it comes
Bringing sun and proud display
Digs up the diamond garden
A dowry for a shining day

Chorus:
Don't look, don't touch
One taste and you are gone

In summer it screams
Cold blood runs through hot veins
Raw honey, night music
Sabers strum the cello strings

In fall it's gone
Following a brighter star
Leaving an empty slate
Darker days are never far

Chorus:
Don't look, don't touch
One taste and you are gone
