Size of which is paradoxical
The only way you're gonna stop this
In the vessel there's a switch in the middle
You really shouldn't fiddle 'cause it's toxic

Listen up 'cause it's a red light
And the pressure's blowing up tight
There's a schism in the time mechanism
There's a schism in the time mechanism

Never touch that switch, even if you want to
You don't know what it can do
Never touch that switch, even if you want to
You don't know what it can do

See the future's in the distance
I know I'm facing some resistance
Getting back within the blink of a bubble
Time machine never gives us any trouble

There's a riot down in Shelton
Only minutes after Brixton
But this city never made it on the telly
Or the rumble of the nations underbelly

Never touch that switch, even if you want to
You don't know what it can do
Never touch that switch, even if you want to
You don't know what it can do

You know you're heading for a meltdown
And you're living in a tin town
Thinking that you're gonna be somebody
Living in the land of milk and honey

Listen up 'cause it's a red light
And the future's blowing up tight
There's a schism in the time mechanism
There's a schism in the time mechanism

Never touch that switch, even if you want to
You don't know what it can do

Never touch that switch, even if you want to
You don't know what it can do

Never touch that switch, even if you want to
You don't know what it can do, don't fuck
Never touch that switch, even if you want to
You don't know what it can do
