Thank you for letting me be myself
Some people don't like me being me
It seems that I make them feel uneasy about themselves
I've tried hard in the past to fit in with people
It hasn't worked
So thank you for letting me be me
It's the only me I do
And I get offended when I'm not liked I would also like to think that that's a natural human emotion
But it seems the position I'm in means it's OK to hate me
Even if we've never met
So thank you for letting me be me
I'm on the telly so people think I don't have feelings
I do
So thank you for letting me be me
I read stuff about me that I wouldn't wish on my worst enemy
You have never said or thought these things
So thank you for letting me be me
I have money to spend and I live the life of a high roller
But you've never held this against me
Some people make me feel as though I don't deserve to be where I am
And believe me I too on many occasions have had these feelings
They're not alone
But you have never thought these things
So thank you for allowing me to be me
If I'm ever abrasive or seem arrogant
It's because I'm scared
But you know this
And you let me be me
Some people will watch this and tear it to pieces
But they're not like you
They won't let me be
