there in the corner
lying so still over there
time waits for no one, and it never will dying seraph

and even you once shined so bright now a dimming, dimming fallen star

I wish you could see
what I see now
I wish you could see
but you never will

you won't need love
alone now where you are

close your eyes, close your eyes say goodnight
to the world
messenger of god
so still and warm
yeah, you know

your message forgotten
long time ago
there once was a brighter star but it's all burned out now

I pluck another feather from your crest of dawn
and you sigh
gonna die

you won't need love
