i can't believe that we've survived the silent songs the night conspires while we sleep all alone in our beds waiting for our eyes to fall and rest remember when we used to think that all the fallen childhood dreams would fall into place by some heavenly grace but now i can see i've made a big mistake i've been searchin for somethin that would soothe like water only to find that these paths have led me into desolate desert lands and i try, i try so hard to beat my dreams in darkness but in the light i can see your every little mistake and everytime it's too late to hide yeah
i just wanna feel like i have myself like when shadows disappear in twilight and it's getting so much harder to accept the fact that i am stuck here i can't hide from my own eyes i can't hide from my own
