There's an eclipse in your eye
Where I used to shine
Every secret untold
Is a planet aligned Don't need prophets or preachers
To make sense of the signs when the buried and hidden Can be seen by the blind

You're right
Some words are best unspoken
So right
Then it all just falls apart-
the day I break your heart

I caught my reflection in the corner of your eye You said don't even ask the question and I won't tell the lie When there's no accusations there's no need for denial If you hadn't heard that whisper there'd be no tear to wipe from your eye

You're right

Some words are best unspoken
So right
Then it all just falls apart-
the day I break your heart

I never took no advice not the foolish not the wise all the truth that I needed was right there in your smile Every prophecy written of what's going to be All beginnings and endings they're about you and me

You're right
Some words are best unspoken
So right
Until it all just falls apart

You're right
Some words are best unspoken
So right
Until it all just falls apart-
the day I break your heart
