I should have seen it coming, I should have
fucking known.

How could I let you play me, I don't even know

I should have seen it coming, I should have
fucking known .

How could I let you play with me, I don't even know.

I'm such a fool, I can't believe I let you in my life.

You broke the rules, but I should have known you do it all the time.

Thought we were cool but then again who am I kidding It's every players favourite crime, to make you feel, like it's all real, when it's a lie, and I should have known

I should have seen it coming, I should have
fucking known.

How could I let you play me, I don't
even know.

I should have seen it coming down, I should have
fucking known .

How could I let you play with me, I don't even know.

I should have known, my family they never did pretend.

My mama felt, she never liked you neither did my friends.

And when you blamed it all on me I should have known that's what liars always try to do.

It wasn't me, It was you, you're the fool, and

I should have known.

I should have seen it coming down, I should have
fucking known.
How could I let you play with me, I don't
even know.

I should have seen it coming down, I should have
fucking known.
How could I let you play with me, I don't even know.

I should have seen it coming down, I should have
fucking known.
How could I let you play with me, I don't even know.

I should have seen it coming down, I should have
fucking known.
How could I let you play with me, I don't even know.

(THE ABOVE, SINGS ALONG WITH THE LYRICS BELOW)

If your heart was simple just like mine is, then you would know just how it feels, When someone takes advantage of your kindness, you think you're never gonna heal If your soul was deep just like mine is, then you would know not to give up, Keep my faith ,even through the darkness, yeah I still believe in love.

I still believe, I still believe, I still believe.

How could I let you play with me, I don't even know.
