I look into your eyes to see a place, drifting like a saterlite in space, longing for a touch from someone who feels too much, ain't you hold up your walls before I'm getting close enough, but baby, I can see the glammer when you open up the door and that crack of shining light keeps me coming back for more, to see ref: Underneath the hart just before the light lies

behind the sol, when the mind has it to know, the dreams you can't belive have the love I need you, see the place we am to start is right there, underneath the hart.

You live inside the castle made of sand, where tears would only hurt the way it stands.
I want to knock it down, start to fresh beside the grown, still you hide behind the past like that's what life's all about, but baby

Working up the strait the true love, true love is really me and the only way you know is if you show me how you feel,

ref: Underneath the hart, just before the light lies
behind the sol,
when the mind has it to know.
The dreams you can't belive have the love, I need you, see the place
we am to start is right there (right there), underneath the hart.

You could spend your hole life in fever pain but love is only as deep as the risk you take, as the risk you take.

ref: Underneath the hart just before the light (just before the light) lies behind the sol, when the mind has it to know. the dreams you can't believe have the love, I need you, see the place we am to start right there (right there),

underneath the heart.
