Close your eyes and just imagine we're flying
Would it be better if we were dying?

I've got rules and a flaw that says that you're the best I never had
Keep drinkin' and forget that you're crying
Everybody else here is trying So take a minute and forget your name and how you're stuck in the same awful place

So don't go
And please don't leave
I can't take this
And I can't hold on

Differences from what I had
What I gave and what I lacked
Turning back on you again
But never had to make a friend

What I'm holdin' onto now
Trying to keep my focus somehow
Cause I can't see your face
And I'm finding it hard to breath tonight

What I see and what I've got Trying not to focus on Something new and something fresh
Something that I try to keep inside my chest

And I will wait for your call (And I will wait forever)
A phone that rings no more (And I will wait forever) Trying hard to forget about lying on your floor (And I will wait forever)

Doing what you thought you knew
Everybody here is through
I don't know what to say now
Everybody's falling now

Differences from what I had
What I gave and what I lacked

Turning back on you again
And now it's hard to make a new friend
