Whenever I was in trouble
I believed it to go right in the end
Everything was meant to be like this
That's why I never cared about other things

I went out of house at midnight
No one can stop me, and the moon gave me light
The light to see, what was wrong
I told myself, that nothing was wrong
That it'll be fine, whatever happens

Until today, that there's no such thing
But I'll still obey to what I believed in
It's better than giving up from the start
I know it's better, without a change of heart
I still believe in miracles, so I have something to trust

I wanted to breakdown
When what I believed was really a lie
Everything seemed to mock me
That's why I couldn't trust in others

I didn't know anything
I was honest and I never knew
I had a pure heart, everything was new

Until today, that I knew there's no such thing
But I'll still obey to what I believed in
It's better than giving up from the start
I know it's better, without a change of heart
I still believe in miracles, so I have something to trust
I still believe in miracles, so I have something to trust
