...And another regret flows off the surface
Coming under your skin, making things worthless
You'll let the time go, and let your scars show out
Tears dry your throat, you can't even scream it out loud

Let's start it again, where we've been to begin
Say this is fake, give back what you have taken
Like you've forgotten your faith there to wait
Go back the path, stepped on by your pasts
You'll soon see, when the lights are out

In the new game, you'll see things changed
In the new game, you'll see your faith coming

... For another day to come and go
It hurts your heart, but you still say no
Soon you'll regret for always crawling under
Seems as if a light, but not, just like those thunders

Let's start it again, where we've been to begin
Say this is fake, give back what you have taken
Like you've forgotten your faith there to wait
Go back the path, stepped on by your pasts
You'll soon see, when the lights are out

In the new game, you'll see things changed
In the new game, you'll see your faith coming
(Let's share our faith until the end
Let's share our faith until the end
Now we've got each other to depend)

Give me a reason, that you show your redemption
It'll never make sense, you have your intention
Things are blurred, memories are evanescent

Let's start it again, where we've been to begin
Say this is fake, give back what you have taken
Like you've forgotten your faith there to wait
Go back the path, stepped on by your pasts
You'll soon see, when the lights are out

In the new game, you'll see things changed

In the new game, you'll see your faith coming
