I can't take this weight of this slate
And I can't break the ice, it's too late
Every step I take makes a noise
Every mistake I make breaks raise their voice
Everyone depends on someone like me
It might be the best for when you see You'll see that's a lie when you actually be

What was wrong with me?
I was just a gentle man without a name
I was just a honest man who wanted fame
I was just a bored man who didn't want things same
Things have come too far, what I wanted was not the shame
What was wrong with me, and why do they lay the blame?
It's no one's fault, it's no one's fault

They can't take these mistakes I made
And I can't make them satisfied with what I've payed
Every time that I complain
Every day is far too hard for me to remain
Everyone doesn't seem to care about me
It might be a chance for others to rise
They'll see me fall, without one surprise

What was wrong with me?
I was just a gentle man without a name
I was just a honest man who wanted fame
I was just a bored man who didn't want things same
Things have come too far, what I wanted was not the shame
What was wrong with me, and why do they lay the blame?
It's no one's fault, it's no one's fault

They mock, they give me shock
They ignore, and they want no more
They offend, have more words to send
They cheat, they all tell me to beat
They deceive, they're all the non-believes
They betray, they leave me where I astray

They annoy, they're always something to avoid
They take, whatever memories I make

(Solo)

What was wrong with me?
I was just a gentle man without a name
I was just a honest man who wanted fame
I was just a bored man who didn't want things same Things have come too far, what I wanted was not the shame
What was wrong with me, and why do they lay the blame?
It's no one's fault, it's no one's fault
I believe that it's no one's fault, otherwise it's yours
